For several years F.L. Roberts and Company employees have been donating to Toy for Joy, but three years ago the company upped their donation to $1,000 as they saw the need increasing.

“After seeing there was a shortfall in donations each year we wanted to make sure we helped in some way,” said Steve Roberts, president and CEO of F.L. Roberts and Company, based in Springfield.

“This is a gift from all of the employees at F.L. Roberts, Golden Nozzle Car Washes, Hampden-Hampshire County Jiffy Lubes, the Whately Diner, our commercial and wholesale sales department and our support personnel,” he said.

Toy for Joy, which is in its 92nd year, relies heavily on donations such as the one made by F.L. Roberts in order to purchase toys for children in need. In Springfield alone more than 31,000 families will be served this year. The program provides toys for children in need ages 0-16 in all of Western Massachusetts.
